URBAN JOURNALIST ACADEMY
THE NEWS WE NEED FOR THE CITY

Context
The Urban Journalism Academy (UJA) is a pioneering and innovative UN-Habitat initiative to further the knowledge and understanding of international and national journalists and media professionals of the social, economic and economic issues facing cities in the twenty-first century.

The first UN-Habitat Academy was an auspicious and innovative experience - developed in the 2014 in conjunction with the Seventh Session of the World Urban Forum in Medellin, Colombia - with the participation of more than forty journalists from all over the world and with the presence of representatives of internationally relevant media as Aljazeera (United Kingdom), The Guardian (United Kingdom), Inter Press Service (United States), La Nación (Argentina) and El Pais (Spain).

Objectives
The UJA is a global programme towards Habitat III aimed to
- Strengthen journalists' and media professionals’ capacity to analyse the overall process of urbanization by sharing with them substantive knowledge about the main issues of planning and management of cities, as well as by providing them technical expertise in gathering and examining urban data and indicators.
- To share outstanding experiences of communication for development in urban contexts as well as a selection of interesting examples of sustainable urban transformation projects.
- To make urban development issues and challenges clear and accessible to the general public, beyond the professionals, researchers and public authorities, bringing the urban debate closer to the average citizen.

The Urban Thinkers Campus
As an important step towards the Habitat III Conference, the Urban Thinkers Campus is a privileged place in which call journalists and media professional to think and debate on the strategic role they should play in the process of shaping and communicating the New Urban Agenda.

The Academy is intended as a contribution to The City We Need debating process.
