

WORLD
RESOURCES
INSTITUTE

WRI ROSS CENTER FOR SUSTAINABLE CITIES

City Innovations in Open Government

When: October 17, 2016, 12:30 – 13:30 Where: Room MR19

This panel of open government leaders in cities will focus on the importance of innovation in open government and transparency for addressing urbanization challenges. City and CSO pioneers in open government will share specific examples, such as participatory budgeting at the neighborhood level or opening up municipal transport data to improve the quality of service. This will lead to a discussion amongst participants about how open government innovations can help achieve the New Urban Agenda. The event will conclude with a plan for how they can work together to pioneer this.